DETAILED ACTION

1. Applicant's arguments, see page 4, second paragraph, filed 08/03/2006, with respect to the rejection(s) of claim(s) 1 and 3 under 35 USC 102(e) have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the rejection has been withdrawn.

However, upon further consideration, a new ground(s) of rejection is made in view of newly found prior art see rejection below.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

4. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

5. Claims 1 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US Patent 5,554,125 issued to Reynolds, in view of US Patent 5,871,477 issued to Isono et al. Reynolds discloses applicant basic inventive concept of a prefilled syringe, substantially as claimed with the exception of the barrel having a multilayer structure made of the specified resins. Isono teaches the feature of a multilayer container to store medicines made of resins to be old in the medical devices art. At the time of applicant's invention it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to make the barrel multilayer wherein the innermost and outermost layers are made of a polyolefin resin and the inner layer composed of a resin excelling in a barrier property for the purpose of keeping the medicinal components from breaking down over a long period of time [see column 4 of Isono patent.]

6. Reynolds discloses a prefilled syringe comprising a shoulder portion provided with a luer tip 27 and a cap 2 arranged to be connected to an injection needle 28 at a tip thereof, a barrel 6 closed by the shoulder portion 64 and having an open proximal end [fig 5]; and a gasket 262 inserted adjacent to the open proximal end of the barrel in a fluid tight manner while being freely slideable 10, a medication [A] being contained inside the barrel, the barrel is formed up to the rim of the shoulder portion [fig 6].
